President's Report

Sheldon Barker

2015 – 2016

There is a tag line in a credit card advertisement “membership has its privileges” and that is certainly true of being a member of the Tennessee Association of Agriculture Agents and Specialist. Yet as I think about my four years on the board I realize that it is an “active membership that has its privileges”. The opportunity for professional development at regional, state and national meetings is certainly one of the privileges. However, there is so much more, the opportunity to meet people across the country to see what other states and universities are doing, and to travel across the state and country to see and learn. To benefit from these opportunities you have to take an active part. Troy Dugger noted

It has been a great pleasure to serve as president of your TAAA&S Association this past year. As I began this role, I really did not know what was in front of me. But after working with this state board and the members across the state, I have found this year to be very rewarding for me and hope that we have been able to advance the cause of TAAA&S. This is a great organization in which to be a member. Not only a member, but an active member; one that gets involved in order to get the most that one can from this association.

We just recently learned that our Tennessee Association had the largest increase in members nationwide, up 18 members from 2014, to 168 members. We are the fourth largest association behind Texas, North Carolina and Georgia; just eight members away from third place. This is something the state board has been working on for several years; how to increase the membership. Thanks to all of you that have seen the need to join TAAA&S and have caused us to make this giant step in building our membership. Let us all strive to keep up this good work!

I hope you are enjoying this state conference. The Central Region folks have done a great deal of work preparing for this event and I trust we are gaining ideas and information from one another that will help us be even more valuable as agents in our counties. Later this summer, many of our membership will be attending the AM-PIC in Sioux Falls, South Dakota, July 12 – 16. Next year, even more of the Tennessee Association will invade Little Rock, July 24 – 28, for the national meeting and then on to Salt Lake City, July 9 – 13, 2017. If you have not been able to attend a national meeting, let me encourage you to do so. Travel dollars are available and program fees generated in your county can be used to help defray costs to these meetings. You will be able to associate with other agents from across the United States and again have chances to learn things that can be brought back to Tennessee and help you in your county.

In 2018, July 29 – August 2, in Chattanooga, we will be hosting the AM-PIC. You will learn more about this event during this state meeting. Each member has a great opportunity in front of them. We need your help. Committees are formed and others are still in the process of forming. If you are not serving on a committee for the meeting and want to do so, please contact a member of the state board, or visit with Jeff Via and David Yates. These two gentlemen have agreed and are serving as co-chairs of our national meeting. They are off and running with a terrific start. But again we will need “all hands on deck.” This is a great opportunity for Tennessee to showcase our association, the state of Tennessee and our UT and TSU Extension Programs. I am excited that we have chosen to host the meeting and want to “THANK” our administration from both universities for allowing our association to be the host state in 2018.

Finally, I just want to thank the state board and all the members of TAAA&S for allowing me to serve as President of our association. It has been a great year and I look forward to what lies ahead for each of us. May we all enjoy the journey!

Excellence in 4-H Programming

TAAA&S

Submitted by Matthew Webb, Chair

There were two entries in 2016 for Excellence in 4-H Programming. Joseph Griffy, County Director in Stewart County and Laurie Mobley, Extension Agent III in Houston County were our participants. Both of these individuals have strong programs working with 4-H youth. A committee was formed and Joseph Griffy was named our state winner. Below are summaries of each individual's submissions.

Joseph Griffy

The State of Tennessee Board of Education standards identify learning experiences related to leadership and citizenship as a priority. The Stewart County 4-H Advisory Committee identified leadership and citizenship standards as an area where 4-H could supplement and enhance the school's curriculum. A three year Civic Minded Leadership educational program was implemented. The program was implemented through classroom lecture, field trips to government offices, leadership camps, service projects, and public speaking. These activities focused on teaching responsible citizenship, leadership, teamwork, and ethical decision making. Educational programs were evaluated during each of the three years beginning with short term evaluation in 2013 and ending with long term evaluations in 2015. Seventy-two percent of participants reported that the civic minded leadership program had improved their ability to work in a team and make better decisions in their schools, community, and personal lives. There are 510, 4-H members in Stewart County 6th – 12th grades. These are the grade levels where the Civic Minded Leadership educational program was implemented.

Laurie Mobley

Although I was fortunate to find a solid beef project in place when I assumed my role as agent, the project numbers have shown a steady increase since that time. Not only do participants groom their steers for our county show, they also take their animals to compete in the Clarksville Area Steer Show, the largest steer show in the state. Under my leadership, Houston County Beef project members have won Rate of Gain Champion 5 times at the area show, and Reserve Champion Steer 2 times. Houston County participants have also won the top honor of County Group of Four during the 2012 and 2013 area shows. Houston County producers and community leaders also provided sponsorship monies to help support the youth in the beef show project. The unique quality of the beef project is that it doesn't end at the sale...carcass data is gathered. So not only do we have an economic impact, but also an impact on cattle genetics. Youth take this knowledge and apply it to other 4-H activities such as Livestock Judging and Meats ID. With increased education on this "hoof to rail" project, youth have earned numerous regional and state awards and have been invited to national contests in Phoenix and Harrisburg. The information the youth are gaining also helps in calf selection while producers are educated in genetics.
